

Fireman's Phone Jack

GX-FJ

Portable Handset

GX-FH

Description

The GX-FJ is a fireman's phone jack station to be located at strategic places in a building for two-way communication to the master station. In operation, fireman's plugs in handset GX-FH, which rings in the master station.

The operator can then pick up the master handset, select the switch, and talk with the fireman at the remote station. The construction is simply a single-gang stainless steel plate with 1/4" phone jack. The phone jacks are designed to be mounted to a single-gang electrical box.
